

Invitation for 2014 China General Aviation Forum

Dear Sir or Madam,

In recent years, the issuing of the policies concerning the general aviation has led to enthusiasm of private capital and the local governments, which provides broader development space for the industry. With China's lifting the control over the low-altitude airspace step by step, the obstacle of general aviation development will be swept away. This will drive the general aviation industry to become one of the most promising industries in China. In order to better guide the development of general aviation industry, to accomplish the planning on general aviation industry of each region, to build up regional economy, to make the regional general aviation areas follow their differentiation development ways, and to create business opportunity for cooperation in general aviation industry, the 2014 China General Aviation Forum will be held in Zhuhai, Guangdong Province on November 11-12, 2014.

The Forum will invite related governmental heads, representatives from world-class aviation manufacturing enterprises and famous specialists at home and abroad to make keynote speeches on the subjects of Chinese general aviation market and the development of business aircraft and private aircraft. It will also take Build Harmonious General Aviation and Facilitate Development of Regional General Aviation Industry as the main topic, and will arrange the sub-forums as 2014 Mid-south Region General Aviation Forum and 2014 GHMT General Aviation Forum. The Forum will become a high-end exchange and cooperation meeting for government executives, elites from enterprises, specialists and general aviation fans, which will provide cooperation, exchange and presentation opportunities for the general aviation industry.

In the vast general aviation market, Zhuhai, as the unique city with aviation exhibition and general aviation industry as well as one of the first-batch low-altitude reform pilot cities and the first general aviation flight service station, owns excellent basic conditions for general aviation. As a long-term platform for the cooperation of general aviation industry at home and abroad, China General Aviation Forum will not only become your first choice to communicate face-to-face with related top governmental leaders, elites of world-class aviation manufacturing enterprises and famous specialists at home and abroad, but also help you to acquaint with the latest industry information.

We sincerely expect your participation and gathering with you in Zhuhai.
